AN ACT

RELATING TO GOVERNMENT SERVICES AND INTERGOVERNMENTAL RELATIONS; OVERRIDING THE NAVAJO NATION PRESIDENT’S VETO OF NAVAJO NATION COUNCIL RESOLUTION CJA-06-10

BE IT ENACTED:

The Navajo Nation, hereby overrides the Navajo Nation President’s veto of Resolution CJA-06-10, Enacting the Office of Legislative Counsel Amendments Act of 2010; Amending Title 1 and 2 of the Navajo Nation Code, 1 N.N.C. § 555, 2 N.N.C. §§ 185, 691, 694, 873, 877, 908, 934 and 1964.

MEMORANDUM

TO: Lawrence T. Morgan, Speaker
    Navajo Nation Council

FROM: Dr. Joe Shirley, Jr., President
      THE NAVAJO NATION

DATE: February 12, 2010

SUBJECT: RESOLUTION NO. CJA-06-10

Leaving the political reasons Council adopted this resolution aside, this resolution is faulty on legal grounds and would obviously weaken the Navajo Nation in the area it needs the greatest strength. The effect of Resolution No. CJA-06-10 would be to divide the legal advice and representation of governmental entities between the Office of the Attorney General and the Office of Legislative Counsel. Doing so fails to take into consideration the legal interests of the entire Navajo Nation, and would create problems in conflicts of interest and law.

One purpose of these amendments is to expand the authority of the Office of Legislative Counsel to empower it to represent the Council and any Legislative Branch entity in litigation. This change would create inconsistencies in litigation, which would cause damage to the sovereignty of the Nation and to the development of Navajo law. If both the Attorney General and the Chief Legislative Counsel are authorized to engage in litigation, there would be two Chief Legal Officers of the Navajo Nation, each with the ability to sue, defend, and settle suits. If the two Chief Legal Officers disagree, or if the Attorney General is simply not consulted before the Chief Legislative Counsel acts in litigation, the Nation’s sovereignty would be greatly undermined by inconsistent positions asserted before state and federal courts. Further, the development of Navajo law before the Navajo courts could be similarly compromised. One could not overstate the importance of having a single decision maker who has the overall best interest of the Navajo Nation in mind for litigation, specifically litigation strategy and litigation coordination.

The Navajo Nation needs one lawyer charged with prosecuting and defending all legal actions of the Nation. This ensures uniformity and consistency. In addition, the Attorney General represents the entire Navajo Nation and takes into consideration the needs of all three branches and the 110 chapters. The Office of Legislative Counsel represents only the Legislative Branch which is much narrower in focus and does not take into consideration the needs of the entire Navajo Nation.

The Office of Legislative Counsel Plan of Operation at 2 N.N.C. § 964(A)(2), requires that Office to avoid duplication of work with the Attorney General and to avoid conflicting legal advice and opinion. These amendments contradict this section of the Code and, instead, ensure that there would be conflicting legal advice and opinions, and possibly duplication of work. The authorities, duties and responsibilities of the Office of Legislative Counsel are to provide legislative guidance, which is substantially different than litigation. The Office of Legislative Council is not designed to handle litigation.

Finally, the change of representation of the Board of Election Supervisors from the Attorney General to the Legislative Counsel creates a potential for a direct conflict within the Office of Legislative Counsel, especially if it advises and represents both individual delegates and the Board of Election Supervisors, as suggested by the amendments. Delegates may file grievances against the Board for alleged violations of the Election Code if such delegates are disqualified as candidates, if an election results in the loss of their Council seat, or if Navajo citizens file recall petitions against them. Under the proposed amendments, complaints against delegates and actions by the Board of Election Supervisors against Council delegates would be addressed only through the Office of Legislative Counsel. There is nothing in the proposed amendments to deal with this clear conflict.

For the reasons stated herein, I hereby veto Resolution No. CJA-06-10.
